THE RESORTS OF

PELICAN BEACH

DESTIN • FLORIDA

James F. Adams moved his family to Destin in 1981 from his hometown of Oxford, Miss. At that time, Destin was a “sleepy” village, with no fast food, grocery, or drug store chains, and very few restaurants. He had come to Destin to pursue a real estate opportunity, with plans to stay one year. Now, 22 years later, his legacy of development includes numerous town homes, The Neighborhood of Caribe, and four beach towers along the Gulf, the most exciting of which are Pelican Beach Resort and The Terrace, known as “The Resorts of Pelican Beach.” This beautiful resort complex, whose name was inspired by fellow Mississippian John Grisham’s thriller

“The Pelican Brief,” hosts thousands of vacationers each year. The inspiration for its logo (a pelican riding on the back of a dolphin swimming) was a passage Jim read in Waller’s “The Bridges of Madison County.” From a small duplex town home in 1981 to this high-rise paradise, Jim’s life has taken a “full turn.” He and his family still love Destin, its casual lifestyle, and the many friends they have made there over the years, and they are recognized as being an important part of Destin’s economic success.

“The Resorts of Pelican Beach” is Destin’s favorite vacation condominium rental. It has added a new level of style and hospitality in the heart of Destin, providing relaxed elegance with a total amenity package. Overlooking the world-famous white sandy beaches, accommodations offer spectacular views of the Gulf, “Terrace Lake” and the Destin Harbor. Guests enjoy three adult pools with beautiful views, while children splash in their own kiddie pool. There are conference-meeting facilities, a poolside deli for snacks and a beachfront tiki bar for frozen drinks. Tennis courts, video game rooms, two spas, and a children’s recreation room—the Pelican’s Playzone—provide guests of all ages with endless activities. One, two, and three-bedroom accommodations have everything you need for a comfortable and relaxing stay. The Resorts of Pelican Beach can help make your visit to Destin a truly unforgettable experience.
